28th July 2010

10% discount on 'Timber Fire Doors Explained' training days

Chiltern International Fire and sister company BM TRADA Certification are offering a 10% discount on their 'Timber Fire Doors Explained' training days on 23rd September and 11th November 2010. The one-day course includes a full-scale fire door test, allowing delegates to witness first hand the dramatic effects fire can have on a poorly manufactured and installed fire door.

Colin Whitehead, Operations Manager, Youngs Doors in Norwich, said, 'To have the function of fire doors explained, and to witness a full-scale fire performance test by a UKAS-accredited independent body are vital elements in understanding the benefits of selecting and correctly installing fire doors. The dangers and risks of non-compliance speak volumes.'

'Timber Fire Doors Explained', aimed at manufacturers, installers, property managers, specifiers and approved inspectors, takes place at Chiltern International Fire's test laboratory, High Wycombe. Quote WFDE-A10 by 10th September to book at the discounted rate of £247.50 + VAT (TRADA members) and £279.00 + VAT (non-members). Email training@chilternfire.co.uk.
